

Sacramento Works, Inc. Request for Information – Business Workshops/Seminars

Sacramento Works, the Workforce Development program of the Sacramento Employment and Training Agency (SETA), operates a network of Sacramento Works Job Centers and provides services to assist employers with their workforce needs. These programs are paid for with Federal funds.

Sacramento Works, Inc. (SWI) is the Local Workforce Development Board that oversees workforce programs in partnership with the Governing Board of SETA. One of its goals is to support regional employers' efforts to hire, train, and transition employees. The SWI's Employer Outreach Committee believes that offering businesses workshops and seminars is an important component of its outreach strategy. The Committee's objective is to assist employers with identifying their employment needs and then help them build capacity to train, educate and promote current and new entry level employees.

SWI does not intend to award a contract on the basis of this Request for Information or to otherwise pay for the information solicited. Your response will be treated as information only and will not be used as a proposal.

SWI is seeking information regarding the availability and cost of seminars or training programs which it could offer to employers.

Examples of relevant topics include:

- Cost-effective new employee hiring; ensuring new employee career success;
- Right-sizing employee diversity in a small business;
- Managing newly-remote workers;
- Remote worker mental health, and other similar subjects.

The committee is looking for online seminars or workshops which run about 45 minutes. It is expected these seminars will be underwritten by SWI and offered to local employers for free.

If you are interested in providing information for SWI to consider please respond by submitting a Letter to SWI that includes the following information:

1. Company name, contact person, and contact information
2. Workshop/Seminar title(s) and description(s)
